GALES SWEEP ENGLAND AND FRENCH COAST

THREE FLIERS ARE BELIEVED KILLED IN THE STORMS

WEEK-END TOLL OF PROPERTY DAMAGE REPORTED VERY HEAVY

ATLANTIC LASHES COAST SEVERELY, RIVERS IN SOME SECTIONS AT FLOOD STAGE

London, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Gales, rains and snow swept the British Isles and the coasts of France over the weekend, taking a toll of heavy property damage. Three fliers were thought to have been killed in the storms.

The Marseilles wireless station intercepted a message from a speedboat searching for the missing Marseilles-Tunis mail plane which said the French destroyer Adajacio had found the plane's tires, a canoe oar and pieces of the plane's fuselage. No trace was found of the ship's crew, Marcel Decugnac, pilot, Radio Operator Hostier and Navigator Cantel. They left Marseilles for Tunis at 7 A. M. yesterday and three hours later reported they were in distress. It was the tenth accident this month to the Marseilles-Tunis air line. Service was suspended yesterday because no planes were available.

The Atlantic lashed the French coast severely, causing the serious injury of several sailors when the torpedo boat Valmy was wrecked by heavy waves near Brest, a sloop was sunk and a fishing boat was thrown up on the beach and beaten to pieces by the rough seas. Another was grounded although no deaths were reported.

Damages everywhere were heavy. In Great Britain snowstorms forced abandonment of most of the sports events scheduled for the weekend and caused the postponement of the scheduled flight of the dirigible R-101 with a party of members of parliament.

Many basements in London and Brighton were flooded. The river Severn overflowed its banks and drove scores of families from their homes in Woolguy, Llandrinio and Montgomeryshire, where an area 15 miles square was flooded to a depth of 10 feet.

Channel steamers and London-Paris air lines maintained services but they were buffeted severely by the gales.

Rain, wind and snow struck at several places in France, including the suburb of Paris, Alsace, Aix-Les-Bains and Marseilles. Parts of Cherbourg were flooded by high waves and dikes were reported broken in some places.

MOTHER OF ALLEGED SLAYER REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

Minneapolis, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Mrs. R. E. Landis, mother of Robert Landis, 16-year-old boy charged with killing a detective in Seattle last week, today was reported seriously ill at her home here.

The illness, her physician said, was caused partly because of worry over her son. Mrs. Landis was not told of the exact charges against Robert as members of the family feared the shock might prove fatal.

AUTO STRIKES TRUCK AND THREE OF MOTOR PARTY ARE KILLED

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Three members of a motor party of four were killed when their automobile struck a truck yesterday, causing the gasoline tank to explode and throw flaming fuel over the occupants.

Those burned to death were: Ernest Barner, son of a wealthy farmer of Belle Plaine, Kan.; a woman identified as Mrs. Fleeta Robyler, wife of Dr. W. W. Robyler of Paxico, Kan.; and a girl identified tentatively as Ethel Davis, of Paxico.

Shelby White, of Belle Plaine, was slightly burned.

O'CONNOR, FATHER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, DIES

"TAY PAY," AS HE WAS KNOWN, BECAME SERIOUSLY ILL 10 DAYS AGO

SEPTIC CONDITION OF ONE LEG, AN OLD MALADY, BECAME ACUTE

London, Nov. 18.—Death has cheated by a year the hope of Thomas Power O'Connor, "father of the house of commons," of attaining a record of a half century's continuous service in parliament.

Eased by the last good wishes of his king and Pope Pius, the 81-year-old veteran of politics and journalism succumbed at 3:10 A. M. today to a septic condition of one leg, from which he had suffered for two years. "Tay Pay," as he was affectionately known, became seriously ill ten days ago. King George's physician, Lord Dawson of Penn, was called to O'Connor's bachelor apartment Saturday night. He brought a message of sympathy from the king. Pope Pius sent his final good wishes and blessings by Cardinal Bourne.

O'Connor entered parliament from Galway in 1890. He was returned from both Galway and Liverpool in 1896, and thereafter represented the Scotland division of Liverpool until his death. He was the only candidate to be re-elected to the house of commons last May without opposition. He had risen to fame in parliament as the champion of Irish nationalism, a cause to which the greater part of his career was dedicated.

With "Tay Pay's" death, the veteran Lloyd George, former prime minister and leader of the liberal party, succeeds to the title of "father" of the house of commons. He has attained a record of 39 years of continuous service.

FRANCE LAUNCHES WORLD'S GREATEST UNDERSEA CRAFT

SUBMARINE CRUISER SURCOUF TAKES TO SEA AT CHERBOURG TODAY

SURPASSES BY 1,000 TONS THE FINEST SUBS OF AMERICA AND ENGLAND

Cherbourg, France, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—The world's greatest undersea craft, the French submarine cruiser Surcouf, was launched here today.

Surpassing by 1,000 tons the finest submarines that America and Great Britain ever have conceived, the Surcouf represents the type of craft which France has declared it must retain as an arm of defense.

The new craft can cruise halfway around the world without refueling, can carry a seaplane, is provided with broadside as well as bow and stern torpedo tubes and has an armored deck to protect against shells and air bombs.

The Surcouf, 4,304 tons when submerged, represents three years' work and is one more reason why France is certain, at the London five-power naval conference, to oppose the abolition of submarines in modern warfare. France intends the new craft as a test ship.

The greatest interest among spectators today centered in the conical aerodrome which fits into the superstructure. In it is packed away a seaplane with folding wings. The plane can be taken out, fitted for flight and slid overboard in five minutes, or tucked away in eight.

The new craft is 400 feet long, 50 feet longer than the largest American and British submarines, and double the lengths of the greatest war-time German U boats. Diesel engines will drive her 19 knots on the surface and 12 knots under water and with extra large fuel tanks she is capable of a cruiser distance of 13,000 miles.

Heroic Nurses Quiet Frantic Patients and Carry Them to Safety in San Francisco Fire

FIRE STARTS AS RESULT OF BLAST IN X-RAY ROOM

DAMAGE IN UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA HOSPITAL ESTIMATED AT $250,000

DAY OF HEROICS FOR WOMEN STARTED WITH COOL TELEPHONE OPERATOR

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Heroism on the part of 120 nurses who quieted frantic patients and carried them to safety prevented a horrible disaster here today after a fire swept through the University of California hospital.

The flames started as a result of an explosion in an X-ray room and for a time it looked as though many of the sick and injured would lose their lives.

Rescue workers concentrated on clearing patients from the hospital while firemen strove to extinguish the flames.

In the gray hours of early morning success finally greeted the efforts of both nurses and firemen. Every patient was carried to a hall at the rear of the building and shortly thereafter the flames were controlled.

Damage was estimated at $250,000. No one was seriously injured. But before the flames were controlled there were many terror-filled moments with the nurses striving earnestly to prevent a panic, and in this they were successful. That no one was burned to death resulted from the excellent work of the nurses, directed by Miss Kathleen Fores, superintendent of nurses, Charles Brenan, fire chief, told the United Press.

The hospital building is five stories high with X-ray rooms on the third floor. After the explosion, the flames swept up, reaching the fifth floor, burning past the windows of bed-ridden patients.

Miss Juanita Cosenborder, telephone operator, discovered the flames and it was she who started the day of heroics for women.

With remarkable presence of mind Miss Cosenborder turned in the alarm and leaped to the ground floor where she summoned nurses.

Miss Cosenborder struck a sand pile in her jump. She wrenched an ankle but not seriously.

Sheets of flame were shooting from the windows of the X-ray room when firemen arrived. Fearing a repetition of the Cleveland hospital disaster, which killed 127 persons this year, Fire Chief Brennan immediately sounded a call for his helmet squad and that group, wearing gas masks, dared to enter the flaming X-ray room. The room and adjoining rooms were flooded with water.

After the hospital was cleared of patients firemen battled stubbornly for an hour before the flames were extinguished.

Within two hours after the fire had been discovered the patients were returned to their beds and the usual routine of the place was resumed. By 5:15 A. M. PST, all was quiet and orderly again.

Damage was confined to the third and fifth floors, the third being gutted by the flames. Little damage was done on the lower floors by fire but the flooding of the X-ray room with water caused some property loss below.

The heat was terrific and this handicapped the fire fighters and rescuers. All elevators went out of commission soon after the flames started and that handicapped the workers as some patients were on the fifth floor and were carried to the ground floor.

The nurses gave way to woman-like tears and other manifestations of excitement after the fire was out. There were no tears of hysteria while patients were to be saved but there was a considerable let-down in emotions after all patients were saved and the blaze extinguished.

COLD WAVE IS HEADED FOR THE MIDWEST TODAY

STORM OF ALMOST BLIZZARD PROPORTIONS MAY BE EXPECTED

RAIN TURNING TO SNOW WILL STRIKE ILLINOIS WITH LOW TEMPERATURES

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—A cold wave is sweeping on the midwest and will arrive tonight or tomorrow, the weather bureau reported today. The forecast for tomorrow indicated a storm of almost blizzard proportions might be expected.

Rain turning to snow will strike Illinois, with temperatures ranging below freezing, the forecast said. The same prediction was made for Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa and Minnesota.

Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas also will feel the wave to a lesser degree, but North Dakota and South Dakota may escape the storm.

BUYERS ON N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE CONTINUE CAUTIOUS

NOTWITHSTANDING THE BULLISH NEWS OF BUSINESS CONFERENCE OF LEADERS

MAJORITY OF STOCKS MOVE UP FROM FRACTIONS TO EIGHT POINTS

By ELMER C. WALKER (United Press Financial Editor)

New York, Nov. 18.—Notwithstanding the bullish news of conferences of business leaders called by President Hoover and advice to buy for investment given by leading brokers, buyers were cautious as the new week began on the stock exchange today.

The majority of stocks moved up from fractions to 8 points, coppers and rails featuring, but there was considerable selling in many issues that sent prices down fractions to two points.

Trading was fairly active with blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares appearing on the tape.

General Motors was strong and active, opening 5,000 shares at 42½, up 1½, still buoyed by the declaration of a 30-cent extra dividend.

United States Steel opened off 3-4 at 163½ on 5,000 shares, but later rose to 174, compared with its previous close of 164½. Radio Corporation opened 5,000 shares at 33, up ½; Consolidated Gas 93 3-4, up ½; Bethlehem Steel 87, up 5-8; American Telephone & Telegraph 219, off 7-8; and Westinghouse Electric 125 3-4, up 2 3-4.

PANCAKES PLANE ON THE ROOF OF A DEPARTMENT STORE

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—The large flat roof of the Bon Marche department store was the only landing place Bob Wark saw when the airplane in which he was piloting two passengers became disabled yesterday.

He was compelled to "pancake" the plane to prevent its skidding off the building, but he and his passengers escaped unhurt from the wrecked craft.

The passengers, Ben Taylor, 17, and Feder Kniffe, 15, of Port Angeles and the pilot were taken to the ground by firemen on ladders.

STEAMSHIP WRECKED, 12 PASSENGERS AND 6 OF CREW LOST

Mexico City, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—The Villa Hermosa correspondent of the newspaper Universal reported today that 12 passengers and six members of the crew were lost in the wreck of the steamship Villa Hermosa off the Tabasco coast. The ship battled storms for four days, reports to the department of the interior said.

FEARFUL THAT FRATERNITY HOUSE WILL BE PADLOCKED

20 GAMMA ETA GAMMA BOYS OF CHAMPAIGN HAVE HOME RAIDED

DEPUTIES FIND 10 GALLONS OF ALCOHOL AND NUMEROUS BOTTLES OF LIQUOR

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Twenty Gamma Eta Gamma fraternity boys went to classes at the University of Illinois today fearful that the fraternity house, three blocks from the campus, would be padlocked as an asserted collegiate bootlegging establishment before they could get back.

The padlock threat was made after Sheriff Elmer Shoaff and several deputies found 10 gallons of alcohol and numerous bottles of liquor in the fraternity house during a dead-of-night raid.

Three fraternity members and one other student were arrested. The three arrested when the sheriff and his men routed the pajama-clad fraternity out of bed at 2 A. M. were: William Sherman, of Crown Point, Ind.; Alfred J. Withers, Hibbing, Minn.; and Ernest Longhorns, Marion, Ill., all law students. B. W. Hoare, not a member of Gamma Eta Gamma, had been arrested earlier and had told officers that he bought the quart of liquor he had in his pocket from Sherman at the fraternity house.

The fraternity men were placed in jail and Hoare was released on his pledge to hold himself available as a witness. Longhorns was released last night on $1,000 bond.

Sheriff Shoaff said bottles containing various kinds of liquor were scattered throughout the costly fraternity house and that the 10 gallons of alcohol were in a trunk.

Hundreds of fathers of students, visiting the university for dad's day, were in Champaign when the raid was made.

The pursuit of education and a profitable traffic in liquor were carried on simultaneously by the Gamma Eta Gamma boys, Sheriff Shoaff declared he had learned. He said the liquor was bought for $12 a gallon and sold for $32, a profit of $20. Other students were said to have been the purchasers.

LITTLE HOPE IS HELD FOR RECOVERY OF SECRETARY GOOD

SINCE EARLY MORNING CABINET OFFICER HAS BEEN LOSING GROUND

SEPTIC POISONING HAS FOLLOWED HIS OPERATION FOR APPENDICITIS

Washington, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Little hope was held early today for the life of Secretary of War James W. Good. Since early Sunday morning the secretary has appeared to be losing ground in his fight with the septic poisoning which followed his operation, Wednesday, for acute appendicitis.

No official bulletin has been issued since late yesterday when his condition was cited as "very low." A later but unofficial report from the hospital said he was "worse than at any time" since he became ill. Oxygen is being used to sustain life.

Washington, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Hope for the recovery of Secretary of War James W. Good has been abandoned and death is expected at any time, attending physicians said early today.

The secretary, suffering from septic poisoning which resulted from an infected appendix, was just alive at daybreak today and his physicians said they doubted he could survive the morning. Oxygen was administered during the night to prolong his life.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Water failed to extinguish fire in 50 tons of coal in the basement of a six story apartment building, so the chief ordered the firemen to shovel it into an alley. For two hours and a half they shoveled. When the coal ceased smoldering they were ordered to shovel it back into the basement again.

NOT AFTER SCALPS OF SENATORS WATSON OR GEORGE MOSES

MERELY TAKING ADVANTAGE OF EVERY OPPORTUNITY TO GET TARIFF BILL PASSED

EXPRESSED SELVES IN FAVOR OF AGRICULTURAL RATES FARM BUREAU REQUESTS

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 18.—The motive behind the "new guard" movement of young senate republicans is a desire to promote the policies of the Hoover administration, particularly with reference to the tariff bill, Senator Henry Allen of Kansas said today after a breakfast at the White House and prior to a dinner which he will tender the insurgent group during the 5:30 to 7:30 P. M. recess at the capitol tonight.

He disclaimed the idea that some of the younger members of the group are after the scalps of Senator Watson of Indiana, floor leader, and Chairman George Moses of the republican senatorial campaign committee, "old guard" leaders.

"We are merely taking advantage of every opportunity the present situation affords to get the bill passed," Allen told the United Press, "and we hope the bill includes the industrial rate level of the Fordney-McCumber bill, plus an increased duty on such textiles as are suffering depression due to foreign importations. We also have expressed ourselves for the agricultural rates requested by the American Farm Bureau Federation."

While this is a complete departure from the more expansive program of industrial tariff revision devised by the Watson-Moses leadership group, the members of the group feel they have the support of the president in directing the change in policy on the part of the republican majority of the senate.

The charge also might be interpreted by some as a challenge to the Speaker Longworth-Tilson leadership of the house which espoused a plan of industrial rate revision even more expansive than the Watson-Moses leadership of the senate.

It also probably will have an important bearing on the final form of tariff legislation which will come out of the conference of the house and senate tariff conference committees.

"We voice no criticism of Senator Watson," Allen continued. "No members of the group are personally ambitious. There is no occasion to discuss leadership."

"The group, so far as I have heard, is concerned about the tariff. Our rallying point is the Hoover administration. We would not like to see the abandonment of the expectations and wishes of the country about this bill which would occur if this session of congress was fruitless of tariff legislation."

"We do not all agree on schedules and therefore no pledges have been made concerning the attitude on any of the individual schedules."

"We are together in the common purpose of hurrying the bill to conference and the deepest motive behind us is our belief in the republican party and President Hoover."

Allen's statement was the first full expression of the program of the group since it started last week to overthrow the plans of the old guard leaders for an adjournment of the special session this week so the senate might rest for the opening of the regular session December 2.

If Allen and some of the other more cautious leaders have their way, the group is expected to hold in abeyance for the time being their hope of supplanting Watson with Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, who they believe, would more closely represent the views of the White House. McNary is doing everything possible to discourage the plan and has let his supporters in the group know he will, if possible, prevent them from bringing up the matter in the republican conference which will be called for the latter part of this week.

MISS PUNDERSON AN IDEAL LEADER OF D. A. R. CHAPTERS

Tall, Slender, Dark-Eyed, a Woman of Very Attractive Personality

GUEST OF LOCAL CHAPTER

Adds Guests at Luncheon at the Home of Mrs. F. W. Wieland

Brainerd had a distinguished visitor last week, in the person of Miss Caroline Punderson of St. Paul, who was the guest-of-honor at the D. A. R. luncheon given by Mrs. F. W. Wieland, preceding the society's regular November meeting.

Miss Punderson is the newly-elected State Regent of the "Daughters of American Revolution," heading a membership of nearly three thousand women of the state. She is a tall, slender, dark-eyed woman of great distinction and attractive personality. She was tastefully gowned for this occasion in soft blue crepe, of a shade to harmonize with the broad blue-and-white ribbon, extending over the left shoulder and knotting low on the right, side, which is the official badge of her office. At the close of the luncheon she rose from her place at the beautifully decorated table and addressed the eighteen guests in a charmingly informal way.

She began by speaking, with justifiable pride, of the spacious and beautiful "Constitution Hall" just completed in Washington, D. C., the latest addition to $3,000,000 properties built and owned by the "Daughters" in the capitol city. It is the largest auditorium in Washington and is designed for concerts, conventions and like gatherings, which are so frequent there, and, until now, so inadequately housed. The first meeting of this kind to be held in the building, outside of the society's activities, was a concert given by the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, and it speaks well for the architectural features and acoustics of the building that so temperamental an artist as Stekowsky expressed his entire approval of both.

Miss Punderson described many of the events that marked the D. A. R. Congress last summer—the impressive procession, the reception at the New Willard attended by distinguished representatives from foreign countries, the Minnesota dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were guests of honor, the address of Consecration given by Bishop Freeman and an address on Soviet Russia given by Father Walsh of Georgetown university, one of the finest orations of a city where orators congregate.

Miss Punderson referred, with fearless directness, to the antagonism that has been recently aroused in some quarters by the society's stand on national defense, particularly the attacks of the Rev. Mr. Stieger. "We are even accused of working against the president," she said, smilingly. "It is forgotten, or perhaps not generally known that Mr. Hoover's sister-in-law is State Regent of the California 'Daughters,' and that our society was one of the very first and foremost to publicly endorse the Kellogg peace-pact. To those who are condemning our stand on national defense, charging that we are 'rank militarists' and 'blind tools of interests that seek private gains by promoting war,' we would call attention to Mr. Hoover's Armistice Day speech, in which he says 'a sacrifice of freedom and justice is the one calamity greater than war,' and 'friendliness and esteem do not come to nations who behave weakly or supinely, but to those who are strong and use their strength not in arrogance or injustice.'"

Out-of-town guests who were here to meet and hear Miss Punderson were Mrs. J. L. Spalding, regent of the Aitkin chapter, Mrs. Frank Hense, also of Aitkin, and Mrs. Elsie C. Neal of Deerwood. Young Mrs. Bakken, wife of the Scout Executive, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Louis Knudsen played two violin solos in a style that brought out the fullest commendation of the visiting executive, and of the chapter members, who were proud to show what creditable musical talent the city can produce.

Books Linked With Homes

"Books" and "home" are indissolubly united in the minds of most people. Indoors on snowy evenings, on warm summer days in the shaded swing, in bed at night when sleep is elusive, they are stanch, reliable friends. Such friends as these should be made to feel at home. They should be housed with a loving care and one should find room to accommodate them at all costs.

2 FOUND SLAIN IN AUTOMOBILE

JOHN A. BARTON AND DAUGHTER OF TWO HARBORS ARE THE VICTIMS

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 18.—(UP)—John A. Barton, 54-year-old Two Harbors bank president and his crippled mute daughter, Beatrice, 17, were found shot to death in an automobile near here early today, presumably a murder and suicide.

Coroner T. J. Brown declared an inquest was unnecessary as Barton evidently had killed the child out of pity and then turned the revolver on himself.

Barton was in good health and his financial affairs were believed to be in good order.

The father and daughter left home Sunday morning to attend church and when they failed to return Emil Nelson, county sheriff, was notified. John Hanson, policeman of Two Harbors, found the bodies early today, slumped together in the rear seat of an automobile.

Each of the bodies had a bullet through the heart and a .45 calibre revolver was found in the car.

Barton was known to have grieved since her birth over the physical and mental condition of the child. The grief was believed to have temporarily unbalanced him mentally.

The banker controlled considerable property here and was connected with two banks in Little Falls, in which he controlled part interests.

The Little Falls banks recently were taken over by the First Bank Stock Corporation, northwest holding company, and Barton was named as an officer in both organizations.

NEW CHANCE TO GET COMPENSATION

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 18.—(UP)—A new opportunity to obtain compensation will be allowed nearly 10,000 Minnesota world war veterans whose claims have been disallowed by the United States veteran's bureau through a movement of the American Legion.

Several hundred legionnaires will start training in a series of 13 service schools this and next week to prepare themselves for the work of examining claims already dropped by the Veterans' bureau.

In the event a claim is deemed just, the claim will be pressed for settlement by legion officials. If previous disallowment is found just, however, they will be finally dropped from the records of the bureau.

Questionnaires will be mailed to every service man and woman in the state who has filed a claim that has been disallowed. The claims include a demand for hospitalization, burial funds and war risk insurance.

Post service officers will then be asked to make contact with the claimant, find whether or not he wishes to reopen his claim, and if so, aid the claimant in presenting his case to state officers for investigation.

The Legion will then become council for the meritorious claimants and will push their cases before the Veterans' bureau.

The training schools will train men for work in every one of the state's 461 posts for the work of examining and preparing claims.

The plan has never been undertaken in any state before.

Many Farmers and Businessmen to Attend

THE International Livestock Exposition and Grain and Hay Show, which will be conducted at Chicago November 30 to December 7, will have a greater appeal this year than ever before to northwest farmers and other businessmen, according to John W. Haw, director of the agricultural development department of the Northern Pacific.

The Northern Pacific this year again will operate two special trains to the international show. One of the trains will carry Montana farmers, stockmen and businessmen and their wives, while the other will carry Minnesota and North Dakota farmers and others. Indications, according to Mr. Haw, are that the "Treasure State Special" from Montana will be heavily patronized this year.

Reports from Minnesota and North Dakota also are that agents are receiving many early reservations for the train from those two states. Each year, by reason of the operation of these special trains, the international show is being regarded as of greater importance to northwest farmers. Many farmers as well as other businessmen in the three northwest states each year now arrange to have their vacations during the period of the International Livestock Exposition.

The Hen Believes in Advertising

A MERCHANT in a certain town had been in business there for many years, but had never advertised, says Levang's Weekly. He had a son who was somewhat more progressive than his father.

One day the son said, "Dad, why don't you do a little advertising?" The father said, "Son, why should I waste money that way. Here I have been in business in this town for over thirty years and am well known all over this section. The people know me and know the quality of my goods. Why should I spend money to advertise?"

The son replied, "Father, did you ever eat a duck's egg?" "A duck's egg! No, I don't remember that I have, but I fail to see what connection that has with our conversation."

And then the son asked another question, "But father, why haven't you eaten a duck's egg?" And the father indignantly responded, "I don't know I'm sure, and I can't see what you are getting at."

And the son answered, "Well, father, I'll tell you why you eat hen's eggs rather than duck's. When the duck lays an egg she goes off somewhere and hides, and keeps quiet about it, but when the hen lays an egg she advertises."

Art and Its Response

THE art that speaks to the heart and not the head gets the quickest and most genuine response, whether it is in music, oratory, painting or sculpture.

The art that requires years of study, and other preparation, in order to provide the privileged few who understand its varying moods, can never have mass appeal.

Abraham Lincoln's fifteen minute talk at a battlefield is enshrined in the hearts of the people. The two hour academic, studied oration of the supposedly main speaker of the day on that same occasion is forgotten.

Nature is wonderfully simple. But when a crazed school of music grabs the unoffending notes and gets all manner of unnatural rhythm and sound—we have jazz.

When they seize the colors of the spectrum and try to improve upon nature by painting red hills, purple shadows, etc., plus strained, unwieldy, wobbly designs which are topheavy and defy all laws of gravity, we have the modernistic school which requires a catalog and explanatory notes to tell what it is all about.

What Minnesota Needs

WHAT Minnesota needs is a man who can kick a football between the goal posts. Too many games have been lost the past three years or more by a point. True, we had Pharmer who officiated well at times, but this same lad's toe did not function well last Saturday and Minnesota lost to Michigan by the proverbial one point.

Minnesota should take time by the forelock. We don't suppose the Carnegie Foundation would let out a wail if the graduates of old Minnesota took charge of their kids, now in the cradles, and started early to teach them how to kick. With early tuition thus carried on, we believe the University would have a flock of pigskin booters by 1950.

Something must be done and we can't start too early.

PACKAGED meat is the newest product of one of the American packers, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Agriculture. The idea has passed the experimental stage. The hope is expressed, however, that the soda fountains will not start retailing the goods.

PROPPED up in a wheel chair, Al Marsters of Dartmouth, has the satisfaction of seeing his record in scoring still leading the pack. He scored a total of 108 points while his nearest competitor has 78.

TWO organizations, the Dairy and Crop Improvement Association and the Cannon Valley Poultry Association, will work together to stage a poultry show at Faribault December 10 to 13. Three counties will compete for honors in the exhibits and entries.

MINNESOTA placed itself in the front rank of the nation's corn-growing states this year by the reported production of 147,420,000 bushels, Paul H. Kirk, federal statistician, has announced.

SEPTEMBER and October business conditions in the Northwest this year were somewhat below the mark set in 1928, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis has announced.

A PACKING plant, to cost $135,000, is to be erected in Litchfield. The plant will be operated by farmers and businessmen and may be combined with plants in five other cities.

Heir to Millions Finds Happiness with Mother's Chambermaid

Once more it has been demonstrated that heart and mind, despite materialistic findings, can win happiness through following the dictates of the God of Love. A few days ago, the social world was startled by the marriage of William Willock, Jr. (left), heir to millions and his mother's chambermaid. The upper picture shows the humble dwelling where the youthful heir brought his Norwegian bride. At the right is a facsimile of the license to wed which was filed in Brooklyn, N. Y. The lower picture shows the mansion of his father, where the young man first met his twenty-year-old Norwegian bride.

Youthful Players Triumph in "Fast Life"

Youth will be served. Perhaps that is why three of the outstanding histrionic performances of the year, in this critic's opinion, are by mere youngsters. Moreover, they're all in one picture.

"Fast Life," now thrilling and chilling the cash customers and even the blasé critics like the writer, at the Lyceum tonight Tuesday and Wednesday, is the picture referred to. Loretta Young, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Chester Morris are the youngsters who not only reach new individual heights by their performances, but get a mark that their rivals of all ages must shoot at.

So if you want good acting, don't omit "Fast Life" from your schedule this week. Some very fine performances are registered, also, by others in what might truly be called an "all-star" cast, if stardom goes by ability.

Ignorant Americans?

How much does the average American know about his country's history? Not much, in the opinion of clerks at the public information booth at Concord, N. H. They complain that they are bothered frequently by tourists asking to be directed to "the battlefield," which, of course, is located at Concord, Mass.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Nov. 18.—Down in LaFayette, Ind., they're taking their hats off to Coach Jimmy Phelan and the greatest football team Purdue ever had for the Boilermakers are the Big Ten champions of 1929.

It is the first time Purdue ever won the title. That explains why LaFayette literally went wild Saturday night and still is celebrating. No other Purdue team ever showed the class of the present one. Outweighed in every game, the Boilermakers have come through an undefeated season on brains, speed and nerve.

Phelan has taught them what the word "fight" means and the team has shown Phelan that it knows how. On straight football the Boilermakers have been outplayed once or twice during the year, but they never have been outthought.

Saturday they got over what was considered their hardest hurdle and they won by knowing what to do at the right time. They couldn't gain through the stubborn Iowa line and they were smart enough to realize the fact, so Glen Harmeson stepped back and threw a couple of passes, the second of which landed in the arms of a squatty little end named Bill Woerner, who stepped over the goal line for a touchdown. Harmeson place-kicked the extra point. After that the Boilermakers were smart enough to play conservative football and protect the lead.

Now the Boilermakers' supporters are visioning recognition as national champions. However, besides rivals in other sections—such as Pittsburgh, California, Tulane and Tennessee—they have national championship aspiration rivalry right in their own state.

In South Bend, there's a school named Notre Dame which has a football team called the Fighting Irish and those fighting Irish (the Irish is a misnomer in some respects for there are Jews, Italians, Germans, etc., on the team) also are undefeated.

The Notre Dame outfit has played the hardest intersectional schedule of any team in the country and perhaps rightfully the men believe that if they can go through the season undefeated they are entitled to national championship recognition.

Already the Irish have beaten Navy, Carnegie Tech and Southern California, among others. They yet must play Northwestern and Army. But these games should end in Notre Dame victories if previous form counts for anything.

Purdue has only to meet Indiana. Indiana always plays its best game against the Boilermakers, but the Hoosiers will have to play better than the best they have shown this year to beat their old rivals.

The only other undefeated team in the middlewest is the University of Detroit which, however, was tied by Marquette.

Indiana allowed Purdue to clinch the title by defeating Northwestern, 19-14, Saturday. Northwestern still was in the title running until the defeat. It had lost to Minnesota, but had not been tied, and had it won and Purdue lost to Indiana next Saturday, it would have earned a championship tie.

As things stand now, the second and third place teams in the conference have been tied as well as defeated and even if Indiana wins from Purdue—certainly an unlikely event—the Boilermakers will win the title with four victories and one defeat.

In the other games in which Big Ten teams figured Saturday, Michigan won from Minnesota, 7-6; Illinois defeated Chicago, 20-8; and Kenyon lost to Ohio State, 54-0.

The Ohio State and Illinois victories were expected, but the Minnesota loss was a surprise. The Gophers figured much better on paper than did Michigan.

It is safe to say that every football fan in the middlewest would like to see a post-season game between Purdue and Notre Dame. It would be a great game, one which probably would attract more people into Soldiers' Field, Chicago, than any other game ever drew. However, the western conference frowns on post-season games and it is unlikely that the two teams will meet, but what a game it would be if they did!

Death From Electricity

The amount of electricity required to cause death may be stated both in volts and amperes. Experiments at Sing Sing have resulted in the conclusion that no human body can withstand an alternating current of 1,500 volts and that 300 have produced death. For continuous current it may be necessary that as much as 3,000 volts are required to bring about fatal results. In such cases the ammeter usually shows from 7 to 10 amperes.

1929 FOOTBALL SEASON ENTERS FINAL WEEKS

IRISHMEN AND PITTSBURGH IMPROVED TITULAR CLAIMS
SATURDAY

NOTRE DAME DEFEATED SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA BY SLIM MARGIN OF A POINT

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Nov. 18.—With the 1929 football season entering the final weeks of competition, section leaders have been firmly established in every section of the country and two teams—Notre Dame and the University of Pittsburgh—stand out as the leading contenders for national championship honors.

Both Notre Dame and Pitt improved their titular claims Saturday. Rockne's Irish nosing out Southern California by the slim margin of a point after touchdown while the Panthers swamped a reputedly powerful defensive Carnegie Tech team, 34 to 13.

Despite the closeness of their win over the Pacific coast team, the Irish maintain front ranking in the race for national honors because of the difficult schedule they have played. Pitt fans contend the Panthers' decisive win over Carnegie entitles them to rating above Notre Dame, Carnegie having held the Rockneites to a 7 to 0 score early in the season. However, comparative scores furnish an uncertain basis on which to rate teams and the majority of critics will continue to give Notre Dame first consideration.

The defeat of Cornell's hitherto unbeaten and untied eleven by Dartmouth left Pitt as the only remaining contender for eastern sectional honors. A victory over the State in their remaining game will give the Panthers a sectional championship.

Notre Dame is forced to share midwestern sectional honors with Purdue, only undefeated Big Ten conference team. By beating Iowa Saturday the Boilermakers cinched their first championship in 32 years of conference competition.

Tennessee and Tulane are unbeaten in the south. Unfortunately the two teams do not meet and both appear likely to complete their season unbeaten. Tennessee has played the harder schedule.

California held its lead on the Pacific coast by nosing out Washington but has not clinched sectional leadership. The Bears meet Stanford this week and will enter the contest as the under dogs. Unless they win, the coast conference will end in a triple tie between California, Stanford and Southern California.

Utah continued its two year unbroken string of victories, swamping Wyoming, and apparently entirely outclasses all competition in the Rocky Mountain district.

The championship situation in the southwest was clarified by Texas Christian University's victory over Texas University and Baylor's defeat by Southern Methodist. Previously all four teams were undefeated in conference competition.

Nebraska remains the only undefeated Big Six conference team although held to two ties during the year.

That the publicity campaign is getting results is indicated by the fact that in one day a hundred applications for guide books of the town were received.

All-American Prospects

By HARDIN BURNLEY

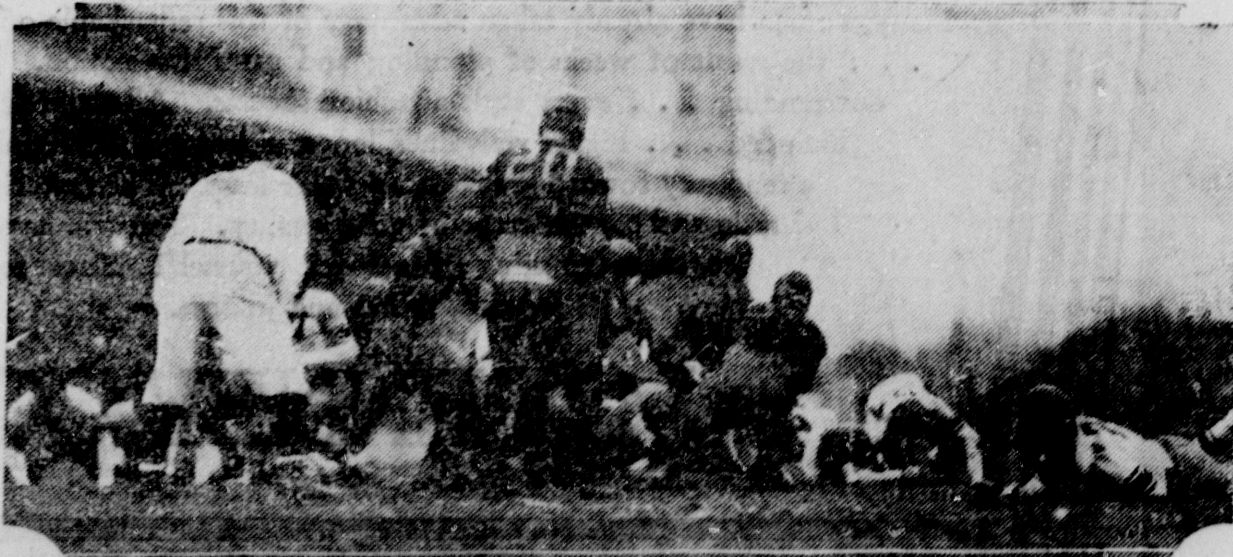

STARTING with ends only, Bates of Western Maryland, etc., when Pittsburgh's truly great team beat the Buckeyes, 18 to 2, on Nov. 2. The Panthers assigned two stars to take care of the agile Wes. While such expert vigilance curbed Fesler noticeably, he was able to show enough to warrant All-American consideration in a game which revealed like qualities on the part of Donchess, Pitt's remarkable end.

On the same day at New Haven, Conn., some hitherto unsung Yale wingmen were giving dazzling exhibitions in competition with Dartmouth's famed Booma and Yuddy. Helped by Albie Booth's lofty punts, Barres, Hickok, McEwen and Godman were blue streaks down the field, tackling fiends, and almost impossible to turn on sweeps.

California's Bob Norton is a Coast favorite for national honors—indeed, it may be noted, it would be impossible to convince the partisans supporting any notable team that at least one of their ends is not of All-American caliber. The Sport Bug mentions but a few worthies. Unquestionably there are fully a score of others meriting like consideration.

MEXICAN VOTING IS MARKED BY MANY DISORDERS

RIOTING, BLOODSHED, CHARGES OF FRAUD, MARK THE NATIONAL ELECTION

PASCUAL ORTIZ RUBIO, REVOLUTIONARY AND ADMINISTRATIVE CANDIDATE, WINS

By GESSFORD FINE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Mexico, Nov. 13. — In an election marked by nationwide rioting, bloodshed and charges of fraud, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, national revolutionary and administrative candidate, has obtained a triumphant majority for the presidency of Mexico.
An accurate check of the dead was impossible. Many deaths were confirmed and those together with semi-official reports indicated the number killed throughout the states would reach 21 with scores injured. Unconfirmed reports placed the dead at 28. Police announced that eight persons were killed in election rioting in the capital alone. At least 19 others were seriously wounded, according to a count this morning.

While no figures were available for an approximate count of yesterday's vote, reports indicated that the Ortiz Rubio party triumphed in nearly all of the states of the republic. Leaders of the anti-re-electionist party, supporting the only other candidate, Jose Vasconcelos, conceded victory to the administration candidate but only with claims that the Ortiz Rubio victory was a "fiasco" and accomplished by preventing the Vasconcelos supporters from voting.

Incomplete returns made public by the national revolutionary party gave Ortiz Rubio 166,074 votes in the federal district compared to 2,580 for Jose Vasconcelos.

In view of the prevalence of disorders yesterday, the possibility arose of an armed movement to win the presidency for Vasconcelos. It was pointed out, however, that even should the re-electionists in the north attempt such a movement that it probably would be short lived because of scattered support and because Vasconcelos himself would refrain from authorizing such tactics.

Advices to the department of the interior stated that one person was killed at Cecilia in the state of Tamaulipas and six wounded. Reports to La Presma from Toluca in Mexico state, said five police were killed when a patrol truck was overturned. Police headquarters in the capital announced the city's death toll was five and that 16 were wounded seriously in addition to scores who were bruised and cut.

One was killed and four wounded in a riot in front of the anti-re-electionists' headquarters. Police reports received here from Vera Cruz said that up to noon yesterday four had been slain there, one at Cordoba in the same state and another at La Lucha, Vera Cruz state, who allegedly was lynched by Vasconcelos followers.

Private advices from Vera Cruz reported that from nine to 14 were killed there, including a baby killed by a stray bullet. Many were wounded. Similar dispatches described deaths in riots at Cordoba San Andres and Tuxtla.

Thousands of troops were on guard throughout the day but apparently were powerless to prevent a minimum of disorder. Both candidates remained out of the city, Ortiz Rubio staying in Uruapan, state of Michoacan.

The nearest fresh-water relative of the cod, the burbot fish, may strip its kin of honors in producing medicinally valuable oil.

Scientific experiments, reported to the bureau of fisheries, have demonstrated that burbot liver oil is eight times as potent as cod liver oil in the treatment of rickets.

The burbot, inhabiting the Great lakes and considered a pest by fishermen because it tears their nets and preys on small fry, may become a significant part of the commercial catch, it is believed.

The annual catch of the fish, known also as lawyer or eel pond, was 510,972 pounds in 1927.

Cigarette Statistics

The United States Department of Agriculture says that burned or burning cigarettes are discarded in the United States at the rate of 170,000 a minute, or $90,000,000,000 a year. Ignition test made with pads of dry grass showed that a burning cigarette butt would start a fire in 90 per cent of the cases with a wind velocity of three to four miles an hour. The cigarette is one of the greatest fire hazards the forester knows. A trifling fraction of the enormous number of butts discarded is enough to do immeasurable fire damage in forests, wood lands and grass lands.

The hearse was a hay cart, painted red, the estate colors, and covered with moss. Mrs. Jones' two favorite hunters were attended by a groom in red hunting costume. THE WEEPING MUSE

IS Modern Industrialism about to deal the Art of Music the saddest blow of its history? To blame Machinery as an instrument of Decadence may seem startling, but it is true that Machinery in the form of Canned Music is elbowing Real Music out of motion picture theatres, thus denying to the masses the cultural influence of a Fine Art.
Surely, if machine-made music displaces the artist in thousands of instances, the incentive for any individual to improve his talent—so necessary in all art—is minimized and music can no longer hold the cultural value that it has possessed. Any art is dependent for its progress upon the number of its enthusiastic exponents.
Do you, Mr. Reader, find the pleasure in Mechanical Music that you do in Real Music?
If you believe that Real Music should be saved to the masses who attend Motion Picture Theatres make your opinion known to the manager of your favorite theatre. Very likely he will appreciate your frankness for he wants to please his patrons.

SHOOTING BLAMED TO FEUD IN CASINO HILLS

Clifford Green Taken to Local Hospital With Shotgun Wounds in Head

INVESTIGATION STARTED

Mysterious Assailant Shoots at Green, Blinds Horse, Throws Gun in Barn

A mysterious assailant last night shot and severely wounded Clifford Green from ambush as Green was doing chores outside his barn on his farm near Casino in the celebrated Casino Hills, where a colony of old-time Kentuckians has been established.

Green fell to the ground and was carried by members of his family to the farm house and rushed to Pillager for medical aid. He was taken to the St. Joseph's hospital, Brainerd, last night and left soon after receiving medical treatment. His whereabouts at the present are unknown. He is believed to be under protection from another attempt on his life.

The shooting is blamed to the start of a feud in the hill country. Sheriff Morical of Walker started an investigation of the shooting today while deputies have been posted to prevent any flare-up of the feud.

Green's life was saved by the heavy charge of the shotgun pellets entering the head of his horse which jumped in front of him, as if frightened. The shot blinded one eye of the horse.

Shotgun pellets were taken from Green's head by doctors last night.

After shooting Green the attacker threw the gun in the barn. It has been identified as the single-barreled shotgun stolen recently from a neighbor's barn.

The victim of the attack is an old-time at Casino, which is situated about 12 miles northwest of Pillager.

Green could advance no reason for the shooting nor could he state from where the shot came. He believed that the man was hiding in his hay loft and shot from there.

The return of the shotgun is looked upon by Cass county authorities as a valuable clue to solve the mysterious shooting.

BRAINERD BOY HEADS OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE

William Johnson Elected at Convention Held at Fergus Falls Last Week

HI-Y CLUB GETS CHARTER

Johnson Is Member of Torch Club, Includes Sophomores of the High School

Brainerd's delegation of ten to the Older Boys Conference at Fergus Falls which opened at that city Friday evening and was concluded yesterday, saw the return of a very successful group to Brainerd. A Brainerd boy was elected as president of next year's conference and the Hi-Y club received its national charter which means that it has fulfilled all requirements for a first class club.

Of several boys nominated for president of next year's conference William Johnson of Brainerd received the great majority of votes and at next year's conference which is likely to be at Crookston, William will preside. He is a member of the Torch club which is composed of mostly boys in the sophomore class of the high school this year.

Clarence Holden, president of the local Hi-Y received the charter at the evening banquet and made the acceptance speech. Several requirements for a successful club are now fulfilled by the Brainerd club which gives them the charter. Some of which is a definite program for the year with a variety of character building ideas, a definite number of meetings in the year, all members subscribing to the purpose, and recognition of a world wide program for boys.

Delegations came from all parts of the western side of the state, the conference being one of three in the state. Sessions at Fergus Falls were held at the Methodist and Federated Lutheran churches. The local delegation had members from the four high school clubs, R. L. Penrose of the high school faculty and Hi-Y leader, with Clarence Holden, Adolph Erickson and Overt Benson from the Hi-Y, Lyle Anderson and Allan McKay from the Junior Hi-Y, Wm. Johnson from the Torch club, D. Templeton and Fred Doepeke from the Tiger club.

BURNING PERMIT BAN IS LIFTED

Operators May Burn Slash Now Without Permission From State Department

CONDITIONS ARE IDEAL

Rhodes Urges Those Desiring to Do Such Work Before Heavy Snow Comes

Suggesting that now is the proper time for burning of the past summer and winter slash and stating that no burning permit is required for the burning while the ground is covered, District Forest Ranger E. H. Rhodes today ordered the following letter sent to all timber operators in district 4:

"With the ground frozen and covered with a light blanket of snow, the conditions are ideal for the safe burning of the old slash remaining from your last year's timber operations."

"No burning permit is required for burning while ground is snow covered, and although it will now be necessary to start each pile separately, you are repaid by the fact that you are not setting a fire that will spread and kill the young timber which you have been so careful to save during your cutting operations, and that you are taking no chance of fire getting beyond your control with the possibility of being held for damages by the adjoining property owner. Then too, by cleaning up the old slash on your land, you are insuring your young timber, your buildings or perhaps human lives, against possible fires of next year."

"Do your burning now. Don't wait until snow is so deep that it curtails your work in burning. Then too, even with fire safe from spreading, you should choose a day for burning when the wind is not strong, so that the heat from the burning piles will not drift and injure remaining standing timber."

"This letter is your notice to burn all old slash and debris (note Sec. 19, Chap. 407 Forest Laws) on a strip 200 feet wide along all roads, railroads, lakes or adjoining timber lands, on all lands on which you operated the past year, work to be completed by Dec. 10, 1929. Where merchantable timber was cut clean and where there is no young growth left standing, you should burn all of the old slash, and where there is a heavy growth of young timber left standing, any burning which would damage it, should be left unburned."

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nathalie Van Slaick summoned from Europe by the death of her father, "Happy Jack" Van Slaick, wealthy sportsman and society leader, learns from her lawyers that the fortune has been wiped out. Only $28 and an old abandoned estate, "The Firs," have been left to her. John Sloan, young attorney, is assigned to handle her affairs. Nathalie, with only youth, beauty and social position, is further discouraged when her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, coldly turns her away from her regal Southampton mansion. Nathalie, in desperation, cashes a check for $500 at the Waldorf Hotel, where her family name is still accepted as the symbol of untold millions. Sloan, unknown to Nathalie, makes good this false check. On a second trip to Southampton, Nathalie is startled when a strange, swarthy man calls for her. Fearing the police, she flees the house. After boarding a train she leaves it hastily at a small station when she learns the mysterious man is aboard. Finding herself in Brookville, she visits Treadwell Pound, bank president, who holds the mortgage on "The Firs." Pound secretly desires the estate, knowing the new state road will enhance its value considerably. He proposes that she act as hostess to a rich South American who wishes to take over "The Firs" and entertain his wealthy friends. In need of money, Nathalie agrees on one condition, that her identity must be hidden by a mask that she will wear. After telephoning, Pound tells her the condition is accepted. She then calls John Sloan. At dinner with Sloan, who is fast falling in love with the beautiful Nathalie, she informs him of the strange position she will take. He does not mention the check. Next day Nathalie, in Spanish dress, which deceives even Sloan, meets him for the drive out to "The Firs." They meet her new employer. Nathalie recognizes the South American as Capt. Ramon Stefano, the handsome sportsman and supposed millionaire much sought after by marriageable daughters of Long Island's smart set. Stefano is intrigued by the soft voice and the luring disguise of Nathalie, whom he has previously met but does not know it, and quickly accedes to her conditions.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XII.

"LET'S agree, then. Ten tomorrow. The invitations are already out and my crew will have the place in apple pie order without fail by then. And on, yes, a delicate matter neglected. What shall we say about money? I really don't know what figure to suggest. Suppose you do that and make it whatever you happen to need."

Nathalie hesitated briefly. "About ten weeks at a hundred dollars would be a thousand dollars, wouldn't it?"

"And you dress on it?" cried Stefano. "My dear girl, it can't be done. Say double that at the very least."

Nathalie clapped her hands. "That will be heavenly. You are more than kind."

"And fifty—just for saying so," supplemented Stefano, "or an even ten for each month's good work."

He bowed. "And my hand on it. Well met and good night. Above all—count your secret sacred. Until tomorrow night then."

With another gracious bow he walked across to his own car and bowed still again from it as he drove away.

"And does your keen legal mind," inquired Nathalie as Sloan turned his car northward toward the nearest high road, "see any objection to my becoming a masked hostess in my own country house or, as Captain Stefano would say in his dear British way, any catch in it?"

She spoke gaily, hoping to keep any talk they might have in a light vein, for she did not want Sloan to recur again to his announcement that he loved her. He avowed that he did had thrilled her, but she knew in her heart that her happiness in it came rather because of the security offered her than because she turned—in the sense, she told herself, in which Sloan was entitled to have it returned—the feeling which, she could see, was fast consuming him.

She liked Sloan enormously the few days in which she had known him she had come to know him in an affection deeper than she had for any other person. But she did not believe that she loved him. In addition—suddenly the whole dreadful business swept through her mind, filling her with horror—she had drawn and cashed a worthless check, hadn't she? The very clothes she wore had been bought with stolen money, hadn't they? And detectives were hunting for her and the main reason she was going masked to "The Firs" was to throw them off the trail. No, she must not listen to Sloan.

"Yes," said Sloan, minding his driving and looking straight ahead, "there's a catch in it. I'll tell you what it is after we reach a main road and have left the moving picture atmosphere of sighing fir trees, a dark and mysterious country house, a lonely road and a dashing South American polo player."

"Here we are," he added, as he turned his car into Jericho turnpike, with its steady stream of traffic and lighted houses and bright are lamps above the concrete roadway, "here we are back in sanity and civilization. We can talk here."

He left the car for a few minutes at the door of the roadhouse they came to and returned to tell her that he had telephoned to the Garden City Hotel and made arrangements for her to spend the night there.

"But why?" she asked in surprise. "Because," he replied as he got in behind his steering wheel again, "it's a solid, respectable, sensibly conducted hotel patronized by normal people who live normal, uneventful lives. Please humor me by going there. If you go back to my sister's you may get mixed in your emotions because you'll be, in a sense, my overnight guest again. And that won't do. I want you to have the freedom of thinking quietly that will be possible to you only in an impersonal hotel. And while you are in it contrast its safety and general air of security with the romantic character and undeniable personal charm of Captain Ramon Stefano."

Nathalie began to laugh. "Don't do that," Sloan admonished. "Be serious and listen to what I have to say."

He sent his car forward for other half mile and stopped it within fifty feet of a roadhouse station. "There," he said. "What I'm wild to do is take you to my arms, but I can't do that in view of a gas station. You're big enough but look here."

He half turned toward her. "I believe there is a catch in our cheering friend Captain Stefano. I believe there is but I say that with only a disparagement to him for believe him to be a man of honor and he's left you every possible opportunity to have him watched while you're a part of his household."

"Nevertheless, I'm afraid of him. Why? Because he's romantic and you're romantic and for the next ten or a dozen weeks you'll have a romantic interest in common and the pair of you are likely to fall in love with each other."

"What a tragedy!" Nathalie forced a little laugh.

"Exactly," insisted Sloan. "It would be a tragedy. He's charming, rich, famous—in the sport field anyway—but a foreigner. If he and you ever marry you'll never see things from the same perspective and viewpoint. You'll leave your own country, the glamour will die, and you'll both be miserable. You're both too high spirited not to. And you both have too much imagination. His, for instance, will be fascinated by your mask and your mystery of identity till he'll be wild to marry you just to penetrate it. Now the man you ought to marry—"

"Is?" and Nathalie managed to laugh again.

"Myself," answered Sloan promptly, "though mind I'm not asking you tonight. Think it over at your convenience, in the Garden City Hotel, and for as many weeks subsequently as the subject interests you. Mark this in any case—I shall always be at your command and I'm not a foreigner but your own kind, bred like you are, with the same traditions that you have from the same sort of a family you are even if the fortunes of my particular family happen to be pretty badly shot. But I'm with a good firm, I'm going to branch out for myself presently, and I'll get along. And above and beyond everything I love you. Keep that in mind and remember that I have a telephone number day and night."

He produced a card case and scribbled a number on the back of the card he took out of it. "There's the right number and the address where I live. If you lose it call my office and ask them to give it to you. And now I think you'll be best off for the rest of the night in your hotel."

He set the car in motion again and as they drove toward Garden City they talked pleasantly and cheerfully about the enterprise on which Nathalie had embarked and about Ramon Stefano.

"In a way, I envy chaps like him," declared Sloan. "Nothing but money, nothing but time, ponies to ride and crowds to applaud him while fellows like I hammer their way through Harvard and law school and dig at desks while his valet brings him late breakfasts and cool drinks. It must be a great life."

"I told you," replied Nathalie, "and he is really very delightful. And all the matchmaking mothers after him for their unmarried daughters. Aunt Olivia even is wild to capture him for one of her girls. She has loads of money, already but Stefano is understood to have infinitely more. It seems he owns cattle ranches, mines, railroads, lines of steamships, and I couldn't tell you what else."

"Yes," repeated Sloan, "a bit ruefully, 'it must be a great life.' It would have astounded them both, and astounded polite society in America generally, if they could have been told the true state of affairs concerning Stefano—that his mines and cattle herds and reputed boards of wealth were all a myth; that he was close to the end of his resources; and under the sharp necessity of marrying money and marrying it without delay—and that the very money with which he was about to open The Firs and entertain there was being furnished him by an ex-policeman in New York."

NEW CROPS IN FLOOD-DETESTED STATES BRING PROSPERITY

The introduction of new habits of planting, following the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, has brought added prosperity to farmers in many of the Mississippi Delta counties, according to Red Cross officials.

Almost every cabin has a fine vegetable garden, whereas cotton formerly grew right to the doorstep, the Red Cross states. The home demonstration and agricultural agents have followed up the project inaugurated by the Red Cross, immediately after the flood of 1927, with very gratifying success. There is a large acreage in corn whereas formerly cotton was the one crop. Alfalfa has gained a firm hold, and the growing of this crop is bringing good financial returns from the three or four cuttings each year. Live stock also is showing improvement due to these new crops.

Everything considered, the Delta sections which escaped a backwater problem in the Spring of 1929 are in a prosperous condition, as a result of the follow-up and rehabilitation by the American Red Cross.
